November 2021

Dear Parents/Guardians and Students:

Greetings, Hawk families! Please be aware that students will have a one session day tomorrow, ending at 12:05. Wednesday will be a regular scheduled day and all students are asked to wear their tie dye masks. Rounding out the week, there will be no classes Thursday and Friday due to Teacher Convention Weekend. Our return on Monday, November 8th, marks the beginning of the second marking period. That means cycle classes will change and many students will begin attending health classes in place of Physical Education.

This Wednesday is the last day the items in the lost and found will be held before being donated or thrown away. I have been reminding students, but many items remain on the table in the front lobby area. Among other things, we have clothes, water bottles, and lunch boxes. The hope is that everything is claimed in the next two days.

As the temperature cools, I imagine more students will be dropped off for school in the morning. If you are dropping off, please pull as far as you can before stopping the car or consider letting your student out once you come to a stop in the parking lot so that multiple students can get out at a time. Students should be able to walk a bit farther than directly in front of the entrance, whether it be in the front or back of the building. Also, please try and help students arrive before 7:50. Consequences are starting to build for being tardy. Your help in getting our students to homeroom on time is very much appreciated.

Important Dates:

November 2: One session day for students
November 4-5: No school (Teacher Convention)
November 9: Grades available for viewing
November 24: One session day
November 25-26: No school (Thanksgiving)

Best Regards,
